Dear Dr. Chabert:

This letter might come as a surprise to you especially since we have never met or discussed before. We are a Japanese patent attorney firm that have now been authorized by MEIJI DAIRIES CORPORATION to handle an important patent application of this Japanese company. This company has all the rights to file said patent application and seek its patent protection in any country, on the basis of the contract agreed on between this company and your country's institute University Louis Pasteur.

From this institute we were informed that Mr. Philippe Chabert is one of co-researchers having participated in the invention related to the above-mentioned patent application, and suggested that we should send you a letter asking your cooperation if such need happens in connection with the above-mentioned application.

Presently we are preparing a regional patent application to file in each country of Europe, U.S.A., Canada and Japan, but under the Patent Law of U.S.A. we are required to submit two formal documents (i.e., "Assignment of Application" and "Declaration and Power of Attorney for Patent Application") signed and dated by individual co-researchers. The similar requirement is stipulated in the Canadian Patent Law under which we must submit an Assignment executed by individual co-researchers.

As you can find from the attached forms, we have already obtained the signature and date of the other co-researchers participated in the invention. And therefore, it would be highly appreciated if we could be quickly returned from you all the forms completed by filling your signature and date in the blanks indicated by arrow marks.

Very truly yours,

Dear Dr. Chabert:

We are sending you this letter to call up your attention to our previous letter of December 11, 2001, in which we explained that we must submit the deeds (Assignment and Power of Attorney) signed by all co-inventors including you, to the patent office of each country of U.S.A. and Canada. Since we have not yet received your return, we are now pressed from both patent offices to submit said deeds as soon as possible. Therefore, we would sincerely request you that if there is no specific reason inconvenient to you, please sign the deeds and return the same to us quickly thereafter.

Very truly yours,

Toshio NAKAJIMA
